

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University
Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship

NCAT Student Newspapers

Digital Collections

6-30-1982

The Register, 1982-06-30

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister>

Recommended Citation

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, "The Register, 1982-06-30" (1982). NCAT Student Newspapers. 942.

<https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister/942>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Digital Collections at Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in NCAT Student Newspapers by an authorized administrator of Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. For more information, please contact iyanna@ncat.edu.

THE A & T REGISTER

"COMPLETE AWARENESS FOR COMPLETE COMMITMENT"

VOLUME LIII NUMBER 1 NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL & TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY, GREENSBORO, NC Wednesday, June 30, 1982

Aggie Summer '82

INSIDE

Entertainment..... 4,5
Editorials..... 6
Letters To The Editor..... 7

Aggies In The News..... 8
Sports..... 9,10,11,12
The Rest of the Summer..... 12

Questionnaire No Longer Determines Voter Eligibility

By REGINALD McNEILL
Staff Writer

A&T students wishing to register to vote in Greensboro no longer have to fill out a special questionnaire or appear in a hearing before the Guilford County Board of Elections. The U.S. Department of Justice ruled that the hearing and questionnaire used by the board violate the "preclearance" section of the Voting Rights Act.

The county elections board agreed to adhere to the ruling. That means the 32 A&T students who had not been allowed to register unless they appeared at a hearing were registered without the hearing.

The justice department, in a letter to the elections board, said the board failed to submit for preclearance a 13-item questionnaire it had been administering to college students.

The preclearance section of the Voting Rights Act requires local elections officials to submit any changes in voting procedures to the justice department to determine if they are racially discriminatory.

The justice department's decision does not mean that "something was wrong with the questionnaire," said Richard Tate, chairman of the elections board.

Tate said he could not find evidence to show that the questionnaire had been adopted by the previous board.

Members of the local chapter of the NAACP have argued that the questionnaire is improper and that it was used primarily to prevent A&T students from registering to vote.

NAACP President Dr. George Simkins, initiated the challenge against the questionnaire.

The board threw out the 13-item questionnaire and adopted one with only four questions. Both were thrown out by the justice department because they were used before being submitted for preclearance.

In response to the controversy over the questionnaires, the Greensboro Human Relations Commission adopted a resolution requesting the board to use uniform procedures when determining students' residency for the purpose of voting.

At the June 15 meeting, board members were unable to provide information proving that the same procedures were used for all students at area universities.

According to North Carolina law, a student is not automatically ineligible to register to vote because he plans to stay in the college town only until he graduates.

However, state law does say a student is presumed to be a resident of his parent's hometown unless he can prove the college town is his hometown.

Former board member Richard Bryan has maintained throughout the controversy that students should vote only in their home counties.

"You can't go around registering people to vote anywhere," said Bryan, who, as a Republican, probably would not get votes cast by A&T students. "Students should register and vote where they live." Bryan, a Burlington Industries attorney, resigned from the elections board to run for the House of Representatives.

Bryan and Simkins have had several confrontations at board meetings concerning the issue.

Bryan claims Simkins is using the students for his own political benefit.

Simkins said he plans to register more A&T and Bennett College students this fall.

In April, 440 A&T students registered during an NAACP sponsored voter registration drive on the campus.

These students' registrations were challenged by Hardy Schulze, chairman of the Guilford County Republican Party. Schulze said there was no evidence that these students would establish residency in the county.

The students were sent letters requesting them to appear at a special night meeting of the board to determine their eligibility. Tate said students' registrations were either incomplete, had been improperly completed or they listed out of county addresses.

The special session was held in late May after students from the university had left for the summer.

The elections board will discuss a new student registration policy after the June 29 primary, Tate said. It could include a new questionnaire, he said.

Summer and graduation...an interesting combination

'82 A Double Graduation Year Aug. 6, History Repeats Itself

By CARL VALENTINE
Staff Writer

For the first time since August 1947, A&T will hold summer commencement.

It will take place Aug. 6, in the Paul Robeson Little Theatre, according to Dr. Willie T. Ellis, assistant vice chancellor for Academic Affairs.

The commencement will be funded from the chancellor's budget, Ellis said.

Chancellor Edward B. Fort gave permission to hold the commencement after a group of seniors who expect to complete degree requirements at the end of the summer approached him with the idea, Ellis said.

The request also has been approved by the faculty and administration.

Fort sent a memorandum to all prospective summer graduates requesting their response by May 27, to determine the number of candidates who "will graduate and will march."

"The responses that have been returned show that the students are very much in favor of having the commencement," Ellis said.

"If I had to estimate, I would say anywhere from 40 to 60 students will participate."

A guest speaker has not been chosen yet.

Computer Workshop Teaches Students Video Lingo

Sponsored By The Continuing Education/Summer School Office

Children of all ages are fascinated by electronic games such as "Pac-Man" and "Space Invaders" as computers rapidly become a part of everyday life.

A Computer and Kids Workshop is being sponsored by the Office of Continuing Education and Summer School at A&T July 5-16.

Conducted by the Industrial Technology Department, this workshop will host 30 students in grades 7-12. It is designed to give them a basic computer literacy through exposure to computer operations, applications performance and programming of computer hardware and software. This workshop, one of several, will meet daily and host children in grades 7-9 from 9 a.m. to noon, and grades 10-12 from 1-5 p.m.

A special summer workshop, Media Service to Church Groups, was a 25-hour session to help church librarians assist church personnel in more effectively meeting the congregation's media tools and techniques. The workshop was held June 28-30.

A Sports Medicine Workshop was held June 21-25. This survey course addressed a broad range of concerns of persons involved in public school athletics. Discussion centered on common athletic injuries, treatment of athletic injuries, injury prevention, fitting of equipment and liability in high school athletics.

An African History and Culture Workshop for Teachers was held June 14-25. Designed for the pre-service or in-service social studies teacher, it provided an overview of the African Continent, its people, history, geography and cultures. Students engaged in activities which introduced them to artifacts, foods, traditions and dress.

Dr. Elkin Sithole, an ethnomusicologist from Northwestern Illinois University and a native of South Africa, was guest speaker at the workshop.

Robin Davis Wants To Reign In No One's Shadow

By JAYE GEORGE
Staff Writer

Increased Aggie Pride and a queen's council are a few of the many items Robin Davis, Miss A&T 1982-83, would like to see implemented during her reign.

Davis, a 21-year-old Greensboro native, saw this year's lack of Aggie Pride as one of A&T's major problems.

She compared the school spirit at UNC-Chapel Hill during its recent NCAA victory to A&T's MEAC.

Robin Davis

"Although we were out during spring break (when the MEAC tournament was being held)," she said, "we still could have shown Aggie Pride by returning. And not only (showing Aggie Pride) to the team, that played so well and hard, but to the school also."

The Coronation of Miss A&T is one of the highlights of her reign. Davis declined to give details of her theme, but said she would stay away from the fairytale type scene of past years and deal with coronation more realistically.

To avoid some of the stumbling blocks Miss A&T invariably encounters, Davis said she'd like to handle matters as quickly as possible. For example, she said she'd like to have all of the names of the organizational queens submitted by October 1.

Davis said she'd like to see Coronation moved from Tuesday night to Friday night because many students are probably preparing for tests during the week.

Davis said she hopes to select her court in much the same manner as Tommye Brown, Miss A&T 1981-82, in the form of a competition, but is uncertain.

An official member of the SGA, Miss A&T has many duties. Davis said she'll make suggestions but does not want to become political.

"I am Robin Davis, Miss A&T 1982-83. I'm going to do my best and be myself, and I hope the student body will not see me in the shadow of former Miss A&T's," she said.

English Department Hosts Afro-American Seminar

By ROBERT MACK
Staff Writer

The English Department is conducting a two-week seminar based on "Themes in Afro-American Literature," co-directed by Dr. Jimmy L. Williams, English Department chairman, and Dr. Brian J. Benson, professor of English.

Theme for the seminar, funded by a grant from the North Carolina Humanities Commission, is "Themes in Afro-American Literature: From Slave To Serf To Self."

The two weeks are divided into two main topics. "Reflection, Revolt and Renaissance" (June 28-July 2), will include talks on "Black Abolitionists" and the "Harlem Renaissance Poetry," and "Precursors Of And The Aftermath Of The Civil Rights Movement Viewed Through The Literary Genres (July 5-9).

The seminar is designed especially for high school teachers of English and will explore "what it has meant and still means to be an Afro-American," Williams said.

The lectures are concerned with viewing, through literature, the history of Blacks from the 18th century to the present.

In addition to Williams and Benson, guest lecturers include Dr. George Reid, professor of history at North Carolina Central University; Dr. Richard Bardolph, former professor of history at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro; Dr. Andrew Angal, assistant professor of English at Elon College; and Dr. Sandra C. Alexander, assistant professor of English at A&T.

Spruill An Iowa Alumni Merit Scholar

By DEBORAH A. BONEY
Staff Writer

Dr. Albert W. Spruill, dean of the A&T Graduate School, was one of three recipients of the Alumni Merit Award from Iowa State University at Ames. The award was presented June 5 at an Iowa State convocation.

Spruill, who received an M.S. degree from Iowa State in vocational education and technical journalism in 1951, was honored for outstanding achievement as a teacher and advocate of social justice.

Dr. Albert Spruill

"It really and truly suggests that there has been some achievement in my life," he said.

A native of Columbia, Spruill is a graduate of A&T, where he has been employed since 1955. He was initially an instructor in the university's off-campus graduate centers, teaching one course per night. He later became an associate professor of graduate education on the campus.

He became dean of the Graduate School in 1970.

He's served as a visiting professor of education at Rutgers University and has taught at Tuskegee Institute and Mississippi Vocational College.

He's been a columnist for the Carolina Peacemaker for fifteen years, and says he's written more than 800 articles.

Among his many writings is his Recollections From Aggeland, a history of A&T.

He is a former president of the Southern Conference of Graduate Schools and a member of the Black Conference of Graduate Schools.

Alumni Awards Scholarships

First Scholars' Awards Worth Up To $12,000

Four high school students were selected by the A&T National Alumni Association to receive scholarships worth up to $12,000 each. They were the following:

- Riley A. Hamilton III, a graduate of West Springfield High School in Springfield, Va., who will major in industrial engineering at A&T.
- Tonya Annette Crawford is from Reidsville, is a graduate of the N.C. School of Science and Math in Durham, and will major in biology.
- Ronald Kenneth Lawrence Jr. is from Gainesville, Fla., and will major in business administration.

• Gail Spaulding Frasier is from Columbus, Ohio, and will study electrical engineering.

According to Dr. Velma Speight, Alumni Association president, the students comprise the association's first National Alumni Scholars.

The Awards will be worth $2,000 per year for in-state students, and $3,000 per year for out-of-state students. The scholarships are renewable for four years if the students maintain a minimum "B" average.

Students Visit A&T For A Variety Of Reasons

By Cathy Phifer
Staff Writer

Some students say they like A&T because it's less expensive than other schools. Many say they like its professors. And others like the friendly atmosphere.

Many visiting students attending summer school (who are not enrolled during the regular school year) say they like A&T for various reasons.

Doug Hampton, a junior business major at Greensboro College, came to A&T because his home school didn't offer any of his courses this summer. Also, he said, "I like the atmosphere, and I find the people to be very friendly."

Bill Briggs is a senior from Guilford College. He said A&T cost less and the class schedule was more convenient for him.

Angela Allen attends North Carolina State University in Raleigh. She is a junior, and also found A&T less expensive.

The Greensboro native added that "with the way (Ronald) Reagan is cutting back on everything, everyone needs a break."

Darryl Williams is a senior journalism major at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He said that a course that he needed wasn't offered at Carolina this summer, nor at Winston-Salem State University in his native Winston-Salem. He also wanted to work nights again this summer at R.J. Reynolds.

Livingstone College in Salisbury isn't in session at all this summer. So, senior reading major Mamie Allison, who is a Greensboro native, chose to attend A&T.

Leslie Herring transferred this summer to A&T from Fayetteville State University in Fayetteville. She will major in speech communications because that program isn't offered at FSU.

Entertainment

Greensboro Entertainment Can Give You Plenty To Do

By JODY R. MARTIN
staff writer

If you have just found out that your summer is long but your cash flow isn't, do not despair. There are many avenues of entertainment around just for the "short on funds" types.

For example, Plazzazz, a weekly series of free concerts, is featured Tuesday afternoons at 12:15 downtown on the Governmental Plaza on Greene Street. A variety of music can be heard free of charge from now until August.

While you're downtown, stop down the street and check out what's going on at the main branch of the Greensboro Public Library. In addition to a lot of interesting and informative books, magazines, and newspapers, it sometimes features films on a wide variety of subjects and different lecture series. The Southeast Branch on Benbow Road and the Benjamin Branch on Benjamin Parkway are also worth a stop.

If you are a movie fanatic, then you will enjoy Greensboro's vast number of area theaters in the city, including the Janus Theaters on West Northwood Street off Lawndale Drive, the Terrace Theaters in Friendly Shopping Center, Four Seasons Cinemas at Four Seasons Mall, and Carolina Circle Six Cinemas at Carolina Circle Mall. Most local theaters sell tickets at half price (usually $2 or slightly less) until six o'clock, and the Janus has "dollar day" on Tuesdays. Considering that the movies coming out this summer are reputed to be the best in about ten years, movie-going may be high on your list.

For those who just can't take the pressures of school and work any more, how about packing a lunch and heading for one of Greensboro's three major parks: Country Park, Oka T. Hester Park, and Hagan Stone. These parks include lakes, hiking trails, paddle boats, and canoes that can be rented. Country Park has the Natural Science Center, a planetarium, and a zoo with only a 50 cents admission charge. There are also dozen other parks and recreation areas in Greensboro.

For art lovers, there are the A&T Taylor Art Gallery located in the basement of Bluford Library, the UNC-G Weatherspoon Art Gallery and the Green Hill Art Gallery located in the United Arts Council building. They set up art shows and sometimes have special lectures and visiting artists. There is also the Greensboro Historical Museum on Summit Avenue. All are free.

If you're looking for summer sports and recreation you might try taking in a Hornets baseball game at the Memorial Stadium. Admission is only $3. There are also the Windsor Community and Lewis Recreation Centers, Jaycee Park, the YMCA and YWCA, and various tennis courts located at area high schools.

(See Entertainment Page 5)

Summer activities come in various forms (Register File Photo)

Activities Cover The Spectrum They Take The Boredom Out Of Summer

By ROSALIND STINSON
Staff Writer

Summer sessions can seem like the slowest and loneliest session during the year.

The Student Affairs Division has carefully laid out and planned a plethora of activities for students. They include games, softball, basketball (some are competitive and students and faculty can get involved).

Karate classes are being offered, and a movie is shown every Wednesday night in Harrison Auditorium.

There's also free swimming everyday in Corbett Sports Center.

These are just a few of the activities planned for the summer.

If all students participate, it may put a little fun in their summer and bring them closer together.

Additional programs have been planned to make the summer enjoyable for A&T students, upward bound students and faculty.

The planned activities for July are more flexible and exciting because of the July Fourth celebration.

The Student Activities calendar covers nearly every type of entertainment.

There is also activity planned to enhance learning.

There will be four study sessions planned in July to gear students toward better study habits.

So you see, the plans include learning and fun for all.

Calendars may be picked up in the Student Activities Office in Memorial Union for specific dates.

WNAA, 90.5, FM, Is Your Listening Alternative

By NANNETTA DURNELL
News Editor

A&T's WNAA, 90.5 FM, offers a variety of jazz for those who crave relaxation from the everyday sounds of radio.

WNAA offers total jazz listening, public affairs programming, news and dramatic presentations.

It has a diversity of jazz sounds such as Jazzing, Night Flight Jazz, Contemporary Jazz, Downstream Jazz, Uptempo Jazz and Progressive Jazz.

If you enjoy the Reggae sounds of artists such as Bob Marley, Peter Tosh and Third World, then tune in to WNAA Saturday and Sunday mornings for four hours of "Reggae Riches."

"We intend to be more than just musical entertainment. We want to provide informative, news and more meaningful outlets for the campus and the Greensboro community," said Gary Flanigan, WNAA general manager. "It provides a listening alternative to what is currently heard in the Greensboro area."

Program Director Susan Rembert has added to the station's format programs such as Children's Story, Film Talk, The National Radio Theater and The Front Porch.

News Director David Williams reports headlining news weekly at noon and 5 p.m. in addition to a Sunday news wrap-up of the week's events.

Former air personality "Sunshine" (Deborah Heflin) was a favorite (Register File Photo)

1

Aggie Summer

1. Summer Registration sometimes seems like the regular one

2. Thank Heaven for the pasttimes, both active...

3and passive

4. But, no matter what the time of year, we all know who's number 1, AND YOU KNOW THAT!

2

Some people know how to make their own fun (Register File Photo)

Entertainment (Continued From Page 4)

If you're into the nightlife, there are a number of night spots that A&T students like to frequent. The list includes Trevi Fountain, a short walk from A&T located at 709 E. Market St., Side Effects at 2312 E. Bessemer Ave. and Cosmo: II at 817 W. Florida St.

And, if you'll be around the Fourth of July, head downtown on South Elm Street for the Greensboro Fun Festival. It's usually very well organized and just great fun.

If there's anything else that you might be interested in, you can always check the community activities section and A Week's Worth in the Greensboro Daily News & Record, or the main branch of the public library. And most entertainment establishments are listed in the telephone directory.

3

(Register File Photos)

4

It Ain't Easy Bein' Green

First impressions are lasting ones.

When freshmen, entering A&T through the Provability Program, and their parents came to the university for the first time, what they witnessed will surely remain forever imprinted in their memory banks.

COME NOW the fledgeling flock of academicians, here for a considerable dose of that instruction which will make them knowledgeable of subjects such as the sexual antics of the flat worm, or prolific in the adding and subtracting of letters and other typewriter keyboard symbols. Skills sorely needed to function properly in that far off existence known as "Life After College Graduation."

Their parents, having driven straight through from New York, Philadelphia, D.C., Newark, Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, Charlotte, Newton, Ahoskie, Lizard Lick, Bonnie Doone, and other U.S. metropolises, stepped into these meccan surroundings, and a seemingly endless lack of organization.

Most knew not where to go nor whom to see or ask for. Summer School Director Dr. Ronald O. Smith said that had the newcomers followed the instructions sent them in a packet through the mail, there should have been no problems.

But the instructions proved of little use to entrants onto these strange grounds. As one parent explained, "We don't know one hall from the other."

Directive signs and/or humans would have been welcomed. Smith said campus security was asked to help out here. (No comment.).

Newbies seem to by nature have it hard. It must be in their genes.

It's Later Than You Think!

By Nannetta Durnell

I hate to be the bearer of bad tidings, but did you realize that there aren't many weeks of summer vacation remaining until the start of the fall semester?

Have you begun to set forth any of those activities that you had planned so diligently during the cold winter months?

Have you been to the beach, lake, amusement park, the 1982 World's Fair (for those who can afford it)?

Have you visited distant relatives and friends? Have you taken up tennis, aerobic dancing, sewing, body building, cooking or jogging? Did you finally learn to swim or drive a car? Have you pre-studied for a difficult class you will take this fall? And finally, have you been saving money for the fall?

If you can sincerely answer that you have accomplished your summer goals, then congratulations because not only are you superhuman, but you have time enough to add on another summer activity.

But, if you have yet to accomplish that goal do not despair, you are only human. Remember, the world was only created in seven days, so you should be able to squeeze one activity in the remaining weeks. Besides, you deserve it.

So, when that final week rolls around with the start of another school year and you say "August already? I wonder where the time went," maybe this time class you will take this fall? And you will know...

The Spirit's In It

By Audrey L. Williams

"Go Heels, Wolfpack, UNC-G!" and so on.

School spirit items of these half sister institutions as well as some others can be found in practically any local department or drugstore.

All of these universities' school paraphernalia can be purchased with the exception of one local and prestigious university: North Carolina A&T State University.

Local merchants, especially those located right behind the school, are getting off the hook too easily.

The profit they gain from A&T patronage is largely the foundation for their businesses.

Now, one or two mugs certainly show little appreciation for that patronage.

The selection of school paraphernalia is the decision of the merchant. But, if he ignores 5,200 students, then he must be doing something wrong!

Prejudice is a word that is sometimes used a little too loosely. But, as a description of some local merchants, it's not inaccurate.

Most students have noticed the absence of A&T paraphernalia in local stores, and may have questioned a sales clerk or just shrugged it off.

Students, this is not a matter to shrug off; it's a matter to bring to light.

These merchants have failed to realize that there is pride at this school. The spirit is in this university that is of such vast importance to this state. Without it, some of these merchants might not be so successful.

A petition may be a step to take in this matter. Nevertheless, it cannot be ignored.

Leading editorials are written by the editor in chief of The A&T Register. Such editorials do not necessarily carry a byline nor reflect the opinion of the University or the entire staff.

The A&T Register

Published twice weekly during the school year by students of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University.

To receive The A&T Register, please send $9.50 for one year or $17 for two years to The A&T Register, Box E-25 Greensboro, North Carolina, 27411 to cover mailing and handling costs.

Editor In Chief..... Tony Moore
Managing Editor..... Audrey L. Williams
News Editor..... Nannetta Durnell
Business/Ad Manager..... Deborah Sanders
Sports Editor..... Richard Williams
Production Manager..... Deana Tanner
Head Typist..... Sandra Stewart
Art Editor..... Pearlless Speller
Adviser..... Mrs. Loreno M. Marrow
Adviser..... Kenneth Campbell

CONTRIBUTORS: Deborah Boney, Darryl Burton, Jaye George, Stroza Hill, Nellie Lyons, Donna Lowe, Robert Mack, Jody R. Martin, Reginald McNeill, John Michael, Raymond Moody, Cathy Phifer, Phyllis Scott, Rosalind Stinson, Carl Valentine, Michael Whitaker

Represented For National Advertising By COMMUNICATION ADVERTISING SERVICES
FOR STUDENTS (CASS)

1633 West Central Street
Evanston, Illinois 60201

Letters To The Editor

Society - This Is An Open Letter To You

Editor of the Register:

As a member of this race which is known as the human race, I have found it difficult in past years to understand why I don't have the same rights as others. While walking across campus one day, I asked one of my peers and he told me that society was to blame, so I wrote a letter to society that I would like to share.

To: Society
(For what's it's worth, listen and try to learn)

CC: U.S. President
U.S. Congress
U.N. Representatives
John Q. Public

It has been brought to my attention, after some 23 years of research, that I have been cheated of my true right to life.

In past years I have been subjected to hatred, poverty, ridicule and placed in a social bracket not applicable to my character. When the question, "Whom Do I Blame?" was posed, all evidence pointed to some individual named Society.

After further research, I found that society was not a person, but a word created by people, who unlike myself, had a real need to reckon how someone else should live both economically and socially; placing themselves in the higher bracket in order to obtain their goal. Thus came hatred, greed and so forth.

Now, I ask you is it right to deprive a man of the land, food and peace of mind that God put here for us all to share? Society, you have conditioned some to think they are better than I because of the color of my skin; you made war in order to make money; caused defamation of my character without reprieve; caused condescension in my family and set standards by which no man should live.

You, that's right you, Society, told the poor and lazy what they were to be, and then it was; you told me to be as you want me or nothing at all. You set the priorities; and, when I rebelled, you invented a new word "LAW", which would govern me in your fashion. You set the standards but you don't live by them yourself; see, I've found that laws apply only to me. Society, there are two and one half feet for every man, so why can't I use mine as I please? Oh, I know, because you don't approve.

I also understand that, if I am poor and white, Black, Hispanic or any minority, I can't be heard by you. Well, my question is how do you plan to make it when I make up two thirds of the world's population?

Who's to say the book is right except another human?

I've also found that you judge a human's mental capacity by what he or she can learn from a book: My question is, who's to say the book is right except for another human? Society, what ever happened to judging a man by his character? Your character was God's greatest gift to man, but you've made it seem that there is no need to have this great virtue if we have book knowledge. So every year I go to school and learn something that will probably never apply to what you have in store for me socially or economically. You make life hard for me if I don't conform and even worse if I do; I may get a job through you and be economically set and mentally wrecked.

In other research, I've found that you teach me to disrespect others, and go so far as to teach me to kill through advertisement, yes advertisement (radio, television, newspapers). They all condition me to your way of thinking. When I think about the whole situation, I must question your mentality; granted you've been around a long time, but that doesn't make you wise.

Before you go to bed or wherever you go, search yourself; ask yourself if you mean to hurt me and many others the way that you have? Then ask yourself, why can't you be nice to me and just give me my two and one half feet.

In closing, I would say take care, but you've already done enough taking, so I'll say give and care: give me control of my life and care about what happens to others.

However you want to take it!
Jerome Stinson

Direct Action Tips Help Get Results

Editor of the Register:

Students of A&T, you have much facing you in the upcoming 82-83 school year. The funding for your education is being tampered with by individuals in the Reagan administration who have demonstrated no regard for helping the poor of any race.

The increased fees for tuition and board at A&T will be a giant burden on every student's parents, but particularly those who pay their own way. I pray that these students receive a way before all others and that includes this writer.

The following direct action suggestions are meant to encourage all those students who have been hassled by school officials or bureaucracy on any level. Remember this above all else as the key which opens the door to your natural rights.

A person must be courteous and have an attitude of cooperation in confronting those people who have a hostile and deceptive attitude. The reason for this thinking is that, if we, the students, take on the characteristics of the people who are taking from us (what is rightfully ours to begin with), then we become like them in character and cannot hope to succeed.

Be eternally persistent if you are right and have the records to back up your claims. Go back to the office one thousand times if you must to make your point. If a fellow student has a similar problem then the two of you should go together because there is no substitute for unity.

If your grievance is met with resistance by a person who is not in charge of a particular department, financial aid for instance, then immediately go over his/her head to the person who runs that office; or is supposed to run it. Make an appointment if you can't see the superior immediately and try to make it upon their arrival, in the morning, because people in charge have much to do and respond best at that time. If the immediate supervisor is negative or unresponsive to your claims, then go to the vice chancellor for your area of concern and follow the same procedure.

At that point, if you haven't received satisfaction, then it is time to call your parents, notify your guardian or summon the person you rely on for support, because you are now going to visit the chancellor or whoever is in charge of the whole show. If you have an adviser or instructor in school who truly puts your interest ahead of pleasure, then take him/her with you. Remember to be respectful, but assertive and truthful.

Finally, if you haven't received proper attention to your problems, you should address these grievances to the board of trustees and ultimately to the general administration of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

John Michael

Experiences And Observations

Editor of the Register:

My greatest achievement will be graduating from an academically sound school and officially becoming a poised and confident professional.

Before I leave this great institution, I would like to share several observations that I have made over the years, from 1975 to 1982.

I think that you would agree that, after seven years of school and co-op experience, I could have a few observations to share.

Crime

The crime situation on this campus really disturbs all of us, particularly the faculty and the residents of Scott and Holt Halls.

Burglaries seem to be at an all-time high. I realize that our campus police are making a sincere effort to reduce burglaries. I suggest that A&T adequately secure all dormitory room doors that have a bottom section which can be knocked out. The physical plant does a very good job of securing these doors after they have been broken into (the cart before the horse routine). This suggestion is a cost-effective means of deterring burglaries and putting the horse back in front of the cart.

Attitudes

The general attitude of students on this campus toward academics is also worth examining. We do not seem to realize that A&T is giving us an opportunity to create a professional career for ourselves. The majority of us tend to forget that, because of Reality is working 9 to 5, and the dollar almost makes the world go round.

our high school academic backgrounds, most predominately white universities would not give us an opportunity to create a professional career for ourselves. Those of us in promising majors are saying "as long as I get a 2.0 or 2.5, I am satisfied, and being Black will help me to get a job in my promising field."

I sincerely regret to inform all that this is not reality.

Having worked closely with A&T's co-op program, the Naval Air Test Center's co-op program as a participant and recruiter, and having talked with private industry representatives, I have come to understand what reality is. Reality is working from 9 to 5, and the dollar almost makes the world go round.

Relationships

I have observed on this campus that we play too many games with each other.

To the ladies, I have this to say. Strive for true equality with men, not for superficial equality. Superficial equality is telling your mate that you are his equal but he has to complete your income tax form because you cannot; telling your mate that he has to keep up with the terms of the insurance policy and mortgage lease because the terminology is beyond you.

If you are content with not being his equal, I suggest you find a mate who can at least take care of the afore mentioned.

To the men (paraphrasing) I say, "We are not to serve as an anchor to hold our women in place, nor as a sail to take them where we want them to go, but as a guide whose love will light the way."

Kevin R. Hannon

Aggies In The News

Aggies

AGGIES IN THE NEWS

John M. Brown, a 1972 A&T accounting graduate, was recently named manager of tax reporting and analysis for the GAF Corporation in New York.

Brown, a native of Scotland Neck, joined GAF's internal audit staff in 1974, became supervisor of external financial reporting in 1976, and was named senior tax accountant in 1980.

GAF is a major producer of specialty chemicals and building materials.

John Brown

A&T students Vallerie Boger and Brenda Cunningham are both recipients of the Greyhound Scholarship Award.

Boger is a senior majoring in social services and a Greensboro native.

Cunningham is a junior computer science major and is from Whiteville.

50 students were chosen from various Black Colleges and universities throughout the United States to use the award for tuition expenses.

The scholarship program was developed by the Greyhound Corporation to encourage and assist Black and Hispanic students attending Historically Black Institutions.

Michael A. Fairley, a 1982 A&T graduate, is one of nine southern students awarded a Ralph McGill Scholarship.

The scholarships have been awarded annually for 13 years to students with southern backgrounds who demonstrate a firm interest in the news and editorial phase of newspapering.

The scholarship is named for the late publisher of the Atlanta Constitution and is supported by grants from the Cox Foundation and other contributors. While at A&T, Fairley was a member of the University Choir, Sigma Tau Delta English Honor Society, and the staff of the A&T Register.

In the fall, he will be enrolled at the Medill Graduate School of Journalism at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Michael Fairley

AGGIES IN THE NEWS

Robert E. Jones Jr., a 1971 A&T graduate, recently received the Ph.D. degree in adult education administration from N.C. State University in Raleigh.

Jones will go to the Virgin Islands in August and assume the position of assistant director of adult education.

A graduate of Dudley High School, he received the bachelor of science degree in political science and the master of science degree in guidance and counseling from A&T. He also studied at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

In 1973, Jones was a research assistant in the Cooperative Research Service of the A&T Economics Department.

Two A&T students, Alissa Sessoms and Archilus Hart, are interns with the Agricultural Extension Program this summer.

The summer intern program offers on-the-job paid experience for students interested in careers with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Professional Extension agents supervise the interns as they learn how informal educational programs are delivered to diverse audiences.

Sessoms, a graduate student studying food and nutrition, is working in Pitt County.

Hart, a graduate student in agricultural education, is working in Surry County.

Most interns who successfully complete the intern program are eventually offered jobs with the Extension Service, according to Wilda Wade, coordinator of the summer intern program.

Alissa Sessoms

Archilus Hart

Darwin Turner, former A&T English Department chairman and Graduate School dean, was named to the newly-formed UI Foundation Distinguished Professorships.

The award is in recognition of the achievements of faculty members, and appointments are made by the university president.

Turner is UI professor of English and chairman of Afro-American Studies.

He received his bachelor's degree in 1947, and master's degree in 1949, from the University of Cincinnati. He was awarded the doctorate from the University of Chicago in 1956, when he was 25-years-old.

Sports

Drexel Ball Named A&T SID, Replaces Joe Faust

By JOHN MICHAEL
Staff Writer

Drexel B. Ball, a 34-year-old native of McClellanville, S.C., and a veteran Greensboro sports writer, assumed his position as A&T Sports Information Director and Assistant Director of Information Services May 1.

He replaced Joe Faust, who left to take a position with Miller Brewing Co. in Milwaukee, Wis.

Ball worked 10 years at the Greensboro Daily News & Record as a sports reporter and editor before accepting his new position at A&T.

Drexel Ball

He is a graduate of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga.

In terms of what can be expected from his office during 1982-83, Ball said, "I will concern myself with the improvement of the total sports program in terms of keeping the media, alumni, and A&T students well informed of the full curriculum of events."

He said that, in order to improve A&T's athletic endeavors, "I definitely believe the enthusiasm must be rekindled in the community for A&T's sports programs."

My plans and ideas are to make the operation run smoothly, when information is needed to have it on hand and to incorporate exciting promotional ideas which will sell our program."

"I am looking forward to the coming year and to meeting those persons concerned with the improvement of A&T's sports program," he said. "I will be seeking advice from them."

Ball is married to the former Brenda Deloris Petty. They have one son, Tyler.

He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, the society of professional journalists, the National Association of Black Journalists, Omega Psi Phi fraternity and Mount Zion Baptist Church in Greensboro.

Ball described the level of competition at A&T as first class because it is the only NCAA Division One school playing athletics in Greensboro and the level of excitement is comparable to other Division One programs across the country.

Corbett Optimistic About Season and Recruits

By DREXEL BALL
Special to the Register

Don Corbett, veteran A&T basketball coach, is looking with anticipation for the 1982-83 season. His optimism is based primarily on his successful recruiting effort.

Corbett, who will begin his fourth season at the helm of the Aggies, landed five recruits he feels will keep his team among the serious contenders for the MEAC title.

The newcomers include Terry Howard, Duane Williams, Eric Webster, Charles Hinson and Gardner Cowell.

"We've got some players with outstanding potential," said Corbett, whose team finished 19-9 last season, captured the MEAC

Tournament title and earned a berth in the NCAA playoffs. "Whether they make contributions next season will depend on how quickly they mature. Overall, I'm pleased with the group."

Howard and Williams will be candidates in the backcourt. Howard, who stands 5-foot-10 and weighs 175 pounds, comes from Maplewood of Nashville, Tenn., where he averaged 24 points and 10 assists while capturing All-State and All-Conference honors.

Williams (6-3, 185) hails from Lincoln of McClellanville, S.C. He was South Carolina's leading scorer last season, averaging 33 points a game.

The rest of the newcomers will aim for starting berths on the frontline.

Webster (6-7, 190) is a native of Bartow, Fla., and attended Bartow High School. He paced his team with averages of 16 points and 13 rebounds last season.

Hinson is a product of Druid Hills of Decatur, Ga. As a senior at Druid Hills, Hinson averaged 14 points and 15 rebounds. Hinson stands 6-7 and is packed solidly in a 220-pounder. Cowell hails from Currituck where he averaged 22 points and 14 rebounds last season.

"With our recruits, competition for starting berths will be keener than ever before," Corbett said.

Joe Lopez, up for two, and...

Scat back Danny Thomas showed the MEAC that he was a constant threat (Register File Photo)

Football Prospectus

Football coach Mo Forte inherited 35 lettermen and 13 starters from a team which posted records of 0-5 in conference play and 3-8 overall under Jim McKinley.

A&T's offense will feature the running of veterans Waymon Pitts, who rushed for 559 yards and seven touchdowns despite missing five games, and Danny Thomas, who added 477 yards and five touchdowns.

Two players shared quarterback duties last season and Forte hopes to find a mainstay between Steve Lynn and James Harris. Their main targets will be Brian Macon and Orson Penny. Maurice Bryant and Corey Junkins will spearhead the blocking front.

The Aggie defense will be keyed by tackle Leon Byrd, who stands 6-4 and weighs 260 pounds. The secondary will be led by incumbent All-MEAC safety Kevin Robinson, who had a league-leading eight interceptions last season.

The kicking game is in the proven hands of Travis Kelly. Aaron Herring will handle placements.

-Drexel Ball

Sports

...Gloria Johnson, up for two (Register File Photos)

Aggies Add Two Teams To Schedule, Tournament

By ROBERT MACK
Staff Writer

The 1982-83 Aggie basketball team has added West Virginia State College and Barber-Scotia College to its upcoming season. Both teams will participate in the Aggie basketball tournament held in early December, according to Coach Joyce Spruill.

The Aggies compiled 16 wins and 12 losses last season, and will return everyone, except forward Shirley Hall.

A&T placed second in last season's North Carolina Association of Intercollegiate Women's Athletics Division II tournament held at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. After stunning Campbell University in semi-finals (A&T lost twice to them in the regular season), the Aggies dropped a championship game to NAIA power, Lenoir-Rhyne College of Hickory.

Major victories over Southern Conference foe, Western Carolina University, and rival Winston-Salem State University (twice), highlighted the season, which also saw the Aggies come from behind to upend the University of North Carolina at Charlotte 49ers in a thrilling comeback before a large Corbett Sports Center crowd.

The Aggies also overcame NAIA District 26 (North Carolina) champion, Elon College in a Corbett contest, that saw the Aggies play before the largest home crowd of the season.

A&T also took two close games from city rival, Bennett College.

The Aggies will return nine players and add four newcomers, Spruill said.

Howell Left A&T Stomping Grounds For Georgia

By ROSALIND STINSON
Staff Writer

His office was filled with trophies and old films of a former head football coach.

The tall well-built man sat behind a cluttered desk looking for his rollbook to give out final grades to seniors.

Hornsby Howell, humorous and well-liked as described by his students, left his old stomping grounds of A&T.

Howell, a 1950 A&T graduate, was here for 30 years.

He's now assistant head football coach at the University of Georgia in Athens.

"Athens is my home," he said. "I come from a large family with a lot of love. My mother, brothers, sisters and friends are still there."

The 54-year-old man was assistant athletic director and instructor in the A&T Physical Education Department. He was head football coach from 1968-76, 1968 CIAA Football Coach of the Year (before A&T was a member of the MEAC conference), Coach of the Year on the state level, and inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1981.

He has taught in Burlington, was on the coaching staff of the Dallas Cowboys, which is his favorite

Hornsby Howell

NFL team during the summer months, and also baseball's Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees.

He left a predominately Black institution to go to a predominately white one. "There is no problem with the change of schools. It's a challenge. The only difference is that there are more players and the Athletic Department allows more scholarships. This is an opportunity to go home and work at a major university," Howell said. He added that there coaches have no teaching responsibilities.

Howell has been married 32 years to the former Ann Thomas of Burlington and has two daughters and a son. His son is coaching and teaching in the Georgia Public School System.

Howell said, "My ultimate goal is to reach a goal and meet some more."

Baseball Schedule Features Tournament

By ROBERT MACK
staff writer

The 1983 Aggie baseball schedule will feature a Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference Tournament 'that will send the winner to the NCAA eastern regional tournament', said Coach Mel 'Big 10' Groomes.

The conference is coordinating the tourney which will be played at Greensboro's Memorial Park.

The conference has released a team rating based on last spring's performances, according to Groomes, and has listed Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Fla., at the number one position, followed by Florida A&M University of Tallahassee, and A&T third with a record of 13 wins and 12 losses.

The Aggies will again take on southern independent Virginia Tech., with home and away doubleheaders.

The Gobblers at one point in the season were ranked fifth in the NCAA, with a 45 win and 9 loss record.

A&T will also add Slippery Rock State College of northwestern Pennsylvania, to the '83 schedule and Carolinas Conference foe, High Point College.

The Rockets of SRSC will visit Memorial Stadium March 25, Groomes said.

The Aggies will open the 1983 season against city rival Guilford College in Memorial Stadium and follow that with a home doubleheader against the Virginia Tech. Gobblers.

Eleanor Wade

Who's That Voice In Athletics?

By RAYMOND MOODY
Staff Writer

When someone telephones Corbett Sports Center wanting to talk with either the football or basketball coaches, they usually hear Eleanor Wade.

Wade, a Greensboro native, works on the second floor as secretary for the football and basketball teams. (She's a 1979 graduate of Dudley High School and has a degree in Secretarial Science from Kings College in Charlotte.)

Wade, who came to A&T in May 1980, said she enjoys her work, but at times it has its lowpoints.

"It becomes hectic sometimes up here," Wade said. "I'm responsible for anything the coaches want done. And sometimes, everyone needs something done at the same time," she said.

Wade's job responsibilities include typing letters and memos, answering the phone, taking messages, filing, checking the coaches' mail and occasionally running errands.

"It can get boring sometimes, too," she said. "The work gets slow at times and I may not have much to do. But to stay busy, I'll do some filing or maybe I'll clean up the staff room."

Wade said she especially enjoys meeting the people who come to Corbett looking for one of the coaches. Also, many physical education students pass through looking for an instructor.

"I've always enjoyed meeting people," she said. "You get to meet a lot of interesting and different people."

Though she works with the athletic department, she doesn't participate in any sport. She does attend all of A&T's events and has a special interest in basketball.

"I watch games, but I don't play," she said. "I like staying at home and doing some cooking or sewing. I like reading Black-related magazines like Essence, Jet and Ebony.

She has plans to attend A&T in the future, but said she doesn't know when she'll enroll. She plans, however, to major in either accounting or computer science.

Volleyball Team Adds FSU To Schedule

The Aggie volleyball team has added Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association member Fayetteville State University to its schedule for the upcoming season Coach Vivian Fuller said.

Last season, the Aggies swept four games from state rivals North Carolina Central University and Winston-Salem State University enroute to 29 wins, 7 losses record for the 1981 season.

Sports

Sparrow Vows To Make It Into The NBA This Time

By RAYMOND MOODY
Staff Writer

Former A&T guard James "The Bird" Sparrow, who has yet to make the ranks of the National Basketball Association, said he's preparing to make one final attempt to fulfill his lifelong dream.

James Sparrow

It is a dream many youngsters carry to adulthood. And while Sparrow, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., who now resides in Greensboro, realizes this, he is determined to transform this dream into a reality.

"I've never worked this hard on my game before," Sparrow said.

"I run hard practically everyday now because I know the professional scouts are going to be looking at my ability to move up and down the floor.

Sparrow attended Washington Bullet head coach Gene Shue's free-agent basketball camp June 9, held in Washington, D.C., and is also interested in attending two free-agent camps in Los Angeles, Calif., sometime in July.

"If I play the way I'm capable of playing, I will be invited to try-out for the Continental League or maybe the NBA," he said. "I know I've got my work cut out, but I'll be at top form."

Sparrow almost single-handedly made the Aggies perennial champions more than four years ago when the 6-6 guard led A&T to four Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference championships and one appearance in the National Invitational Tournament. The Aggie star averaged 18.4 points per game during his A&T career.

In 1975, Sparrow, as a freshman, averaged more than 15 points per game, while breaking A&T's freshman scoring mark with 394 points. But, being a clutch performer, Sparrow made his presence felt the most in the MEAC's championship game against Morgan State and 7-0 center Marvin Webster, who now plays for the NBA's New York Knicks. With the Aggies trailing late in the contest, Sparrow made three timely steals to lead A&T to an 83-12 come-from-behind win over the Bears.

During his sophomore campaign, Sparrow dominated most basketball games as A&T finished the season with a 20-6 record and the Aggies capped an outstanding year by appearing in a post-season tournament.

Sparrow was a special player. He was the A&T take-charge man on the court. He drew defenses to himself and he was especially adept at penetrating and passing off. At the end of the conference's regular season, he was named the MEAC Player of the Year, as he ripped the nets for a 20.6 average.

Opposing teams feared him. Before a contest against Western Carolina, the opposition tacked his picture in the lockerroom with the line "Stop Him."

Sparrow was ruled academically ineligible the following year because he fell one hour short of the minimum 24 semester hours an athlete must complete during the course of a school year.

"I wasn't a dummy," he said. "My grade-point average wasn't a factor in my being ineligible."

Without Sparrow, the Aggies floundered to a 3-2-4 record in 1977. They went from the conference's powerhouse, to the doormat. The Aggies missed Sparrow's leadership and his point production.

"It hurt me to see A&T lose so many games, and I was on the sidelines where I couldn't contribute," he said. "I don't know if we would have won the championship, but we would have surely won more games if I could have played."

Sparrow returned to the Aggie lineup in 1978, this time under the guidance of newly acquired head coach Gene Littles. And the Aggies streaked to the championship as Sparrow pumped in 19.6 points per game.

In 1979, his average dropped to 18.5 points; but, according to Sparrow, he became more of a team player. His rebound and assist averages increased and the Aggies once again captured that illustrious championship.

"I didn't shoot as much my senior year as I had in the past," he said. "We had so many guys who could score, so I placed more emphasis on other things."

Sparrow declined one offer to tryout for the NBA after the Indiana Pacers made him their fifth-round pick in the 1978 draft. On the advice of Littles, Sparrow chose to play out his final year of college eligibility.

"I talked it over with Gene, and he said I could benefit by playing another season," Sparrow said. "We figured one more year of college ball would make me a higher selection in 1979."

Sparrow and Littles predicted wrong, however, because all 28 NBA teams overlooked him the following year. And that still has him somewhat puzzled.

"I would like to think I had an outstanding career at A&T," he said. "How many players can claim four conference championships? And I was Player of the Year once, and was on all the All-Conference and All-Tournament teams. That's why it seems as though some professional team would have been interested in my services."

When Sparrow wasn't selected in the 1979 draft, he packed his bags and went to South America where he played two successful seasons. He said he averaged 25 points the first year, and 28 the second.

"The fans were crazy about me in South America," he said. "I enjoyed my two years over there, but my heart was still in the States."

Playing in South America, however, didn't help Sparrow's efforts for a future in the NBA.

"No one every really looks at you over there," he said. "Most of the scouts would be in Italy or other parts of Europe. The league over in South America was just beginning to grow."

Sparrow's critics claim he is too old (28), too slow and incapable of handling the ball well enough to play guard in the NBA.

Sparrow disagrees. "As far as my being too old," he said, "that's not true. Charlie Criss was 28 when he made it. My body has't taken any punishment these past four years. I may be 28, but my body feels 24. And my speed and ball handling have improved. I'm in the best shape of my life."

He attributes most of his incentive and motivation to a very special person in his life.

"My little daughter is all the motivation I need," he said. "When I can go no further, I think of her and I just keep pushing it."

It's so important for me to make it," he continued. "I want my little girl to grow up with all the things I didn't have when I was growing up. I want her to know how much I love her."

"I'm going to make it this time."

Athletic Director, Piggott, Resigns

Dr. Bert C. Piggott resigned as A&T athletic director, effective Aug. 23.

He's held the position since January 1980.

Chancellor Edward B. Fort said he's launching a search for Piggott's successor, and that an interim director may be appointed until someone is selected.

Piggott has been at A&T since 1949, and will remain in the athletic department as a professor in the department of health, physical education and recreation.

Dr. Bert Piggott

He joined the staff in 1949, as backfield coach and was named head football coach in 1957.

His teams won back-to-back Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association championships in 1958, 1959 and 1964. He compiled a 61-40-4 record during his tenure.

He has also coached the teams in track and boxing.

He was born in Hinsdale, Ill., and holds a bachelor of science and a master's degree from the university of Illinois and a doctorate in physical education from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

'81-82 Wrestling

James Moseley

Many A&T wrestlers will return from last year's 7 win, 6 loss dual meet season.

The Aggies will compete in at least five tournaments again according to Coach Melvin B. Pinckney.

The team's best record belonged to James Mosely (158 pound weight class) of Camden, N.J., who compiled a 28 win, no loss record, and five '81-82 season invitational tournament titles.

Expected to return are Roscoe Wych (16-6), Marvin Greer (16-8) and Frank Carpenter (11-5).

1982 AGGIE QUICK FACTS

School Name.....	North Carolina A&T State University
Location.....	Greensboro, N.C.
Enrollment.....	5,200
School Colors.....	Blue and Gold
Nickname.....	Aggies
Affiliation.....	NCAA Division I-AA
Conference.....	Mid-Eastern Athletic (MEAC)
Conference Record & Finish.....	0-5 (Last)
Overall Record (1981).....	3-8
Chancellor.....	Dr. Edward B. Fort
Head Coach.....	Mo Forte
Record At School.....	0-0
Career Record.....	0-0
Assistants.....	Linwood Ferguson, Fred Manuel, Craig Ray
How To Reach Coach.....	(919) 379-7983
Best Time To Reach Coach.....	9 a.m.-noon daily (EST)

1982

Schedule

OPPONENT	PLACE	DATE	TIME
Winston-Salem State	Away (Grove Stadium)	September 11	7 p.m.
South Carolina State	Home	September 18	1:30 p.m.
Bethune-Cookman	Home	September 25	1:30 p.m.
Hampton Institute	Home	October 9	1:30 p.m.
Delaware State	Home	October 16	1:30 p.m.
Howard University	Away	October 23	1:30 p.m.
Morgan State (Homecoming)	Home	October 30	1:30 p.m.
Florida A&M	Away (Miami Florida)	November 6	7 p.m.
North Carolina Central	Away	November 13	1:30 p.m.
Tennessee A&I	Away	November 20	1:30 p.m.

Football

The Rest

Of The Summer

1982 NORTH
CAROLINAJULY
UNIVERSITYA&T
STATE 1982

SUNDAY	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY
 Independence Day 4 WATERMELON & EATING CONTEST Union Green 4-7 SWIMMING 7-9 C FIRE WORKS 9-9:30 Athletic Field CAMPUS CLEAN-A-11 THON 4-6 SPLASH PARTY Corbett 3-5 STUDENT COMMITTEE SGA 5-6 SHOWER BALL C 18 2-6 SWIMMING 3-5 C LEARN TO PLAY AN INSTRUMENT 5-7 Frazier Hall SWIMMING 3-5 C 25 TENNIS 3-5 C STUDY SESSION II Room 100 MU 5-8 COFFEEHOUSE 5-8 Memorial Union	AUGUST 1982 S M T W T F S 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 SWIMMING 5-7 C 5 MG FREE C PLAY BLOCK PARTY MGP 9:00 - 1:00 A. M. SWIMMING 5-7 12 Corbett STUDENT/FACULTY SOFTBALL PRACTICE 5-8 AF FREE PLAY 5-9 MGP Organized 19 Sports MGP 5-9 SWIMMING 5-7 C TENNIS 5-7 C JOGGING 5-8 C STUDY SESSION 26 III Room 100 3-5 SWIMMING 5-7 C BICYCLING 5-8 ROQUE 5-8 AF	 SWIMMING 5-7 C 6 WRITING WITH A PURPOSE/Poetry Ayantee Office 5-7 HANDBALL 5-7 C SWIMMING 5-7 C 13 STUDENT/FACULTY BASKETBALL - MGP 5-9 DEVELOPMENTAL PARK 6:00-8:00 P.M. FREE PLAY 5-9 MGP INTERNATIONAL 20 DISPLAY 8-10 Room 100 MU PROVABILITY SPECIAL EVENT MOCK TRIAL 6-8 MU STUDY SESSION 27 IV Room 100 3-5 SWIMMING 5-7 C RACE 5-7 MGP TABLE TENNIS 7-9 MU	CAMPUS CLEAN-A-7 THON 6-8 P.M. Jogging 5-7 C Karate 5-7 C SWIMMING 5-7 C SWIMMING 5-7 C 14 SOCCER 5-8 Union JOGGING 5-8 C TRACK & FIELD 5-8 Athletic Field TENNIS 5-8 Court FREE PLAY 5-9 MGP FUN WHEEL OF 21 FORTUNE (Annual Cook-Out & Games) 4-11 FUN! FUN! FUN! FOR EVERYONE AF STUDY SESSION 28 V Room 100 3-5 SWIMMING 5-7 C JOGGING 5-8 C PROVABILITY-LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT 7-8 AYANTEE YEARBOOK OFFICE 8-9	DEVELOPING GOOD 1 STUDY HABITS I Counselors - MHA 5-7 SOFTBALL PRACTICE Athletic Field 5 SWIMMING 5-7 C SWIMMING 5-7 C 8 INTRAMURAL SPORTS MGP 5-9 TENNIS 5-9 COURT KARATE 5-8 C 15 HAND WRESTLE 5-7 Corbett SHOT PUT MG 5-7 SWIMMING 5-7 Corbett FREE PLAY 5-9 MGP GAMES 5-10 22 Memorial Union FREE SWIMMING 5-7 Corbett GAMES 5-9 - MGP SWIMMING 5-7 29 Corbett Karate 5-9 C JOGGING 5-8 C JOGGING 5-8 C	CANDLE LIGHT 2 DELIGHT MGP - 9-1 A.M. Music/Drama SWIMMING CARNIVAL 5-8 C TENNIS 5-7 9 War Memorial Stadium VOLLEYBALL 5-7 Williams JOGGING 5-7 C JOGGING 7-9 Track FLAG FOOTBALL 16 5-9 Holland Bowl SPECIAL EVENT Lecture Union 4-5 P.M. FREE PLAY 5-9 MGP FASHION & 23 THEATRICAL ENTERTAINMENT 8-11:00 P.M. HA SPECIAL EVENT SWIMMING 5-9 30 Corbett SUMMER SCHOOL A&T REGISTER DISTRIBUTED CAMPUS-AT-LARGE SLIMNASTICS 5-8 C	HORSE BACK 3 RIDING - FARM 11:00 A. M. BASKETBALL - C TOURNAMENT 5-9 SWIMMING 3-5 10 Corbett BASKETBALL MGP 3-5 JOGGING 3-5 C TENNIS 5-9 COURT FISHING 7 17 12:00 Noon FISH CAMP Athletic Field 7-9 P.M. CHESS 24 TOURNAMENT 1-4 MU RACKETBALL 4-7 Corbett FREE PLAY 8-9 MGP EVALUATION 31 COMMITTEE - SAO SWIMMING 3-5 C LIFEGUARDS MEETING 6-7 SAO